Section I – Background

Despite decades of progress and significant reductions in air pollution, the San Joaquin Valley continues to face challenges in meeting the latest federal health-based air quality standards due to its unique geography, frequently stagnant weather conditions, and its position as a major goods movement corridor for the western United States. These challenges are unmatched by any other region in the nation and, when coupled with the Valley's large number of disadvantaged communities, have warranted greater attention and investment by the state.

Towards that end, in September 2017, the California State Legislature and Governor agreed to extend Cap and Trade as part of a legislative package that included the appropriation of $1.5 billion in Cap and Trade funding. The Cap and Trade deal also included the passage of AB 617 (Cristina Garcia, 2017) that requires the California Air Resources Board (CARB) and air districts to develop and implement additional emissions reporting, monitoring, and reduction plans and measures in an effort to reduce air pollution exposure in the state's most disadvantaged communities.

Through implementation of the AB 617 Community Air Protection Program, new resources have been committed to the Valley to reduce air pollution, improve quality of life, and help the region meet its clean air mandates. Building on the Valley's clean air efforts and investments to date, the San Joaquin Valley Air Pollution Control District (District) will continue its work to better understand the concerns of the selected communities and identify additional opportunities for working together with local partners to further reduce air pollution and improve quality of life. With 20 of the 30 most disadvantaged communities in the state being in the San Joaquin Valley¹, the CARB announced on September 27, 2018, that two communities, South Central Fresno and the City of Shafter, would be the first Valley communities prioritized for investment of additional resources under AB 617, with additional communities to be selected under AB 617 in late 2019.

In November of 2018, the District established a steering committee for each selected community and is seeking an experienced individual or organization to assist with facilitation of the steering committee meetings moving forward. To ensure successful community engagement processes the District hopes the use of expert facilitator will assist in establishing meeting facilitation that encourages participation and produces constructive and balanced input from steering committees

Through this Request for Quotations (RFQ), the District expects to select a qualified organization(s) to assist the District with community steering committee engagement under AB 617. Organizations who have experience working with disadvantaged communities, including communities with limited English proficiency, are encouraged to apply.

Additional subcommittee meetings may be required throughout the month. Furthermore, there may be an additional Valley committee (or two) added to the program in late 2019.

Section III – Purpose

The San Joaquin Valley communities of South Central Fresno and Shafter have been selected as first year communities of focus under AB 617 and have been meeting regularly since late 2018 to meet the goals of the program. Community participation and engagement is critical to developing and implementing successful community emissions reduction programs, and the District will foster active community partnerships.

The District encourages any interested individual or organization to visit the District's AB 617 website to learn more about the current work being done with the two active steering committees: www.valleyair.org/community. Additional information on the statewide AB 617 program is available at <https://ww2.arb.ca.gov/our-work/programs/community-air-protection-program>.

Community Steering Committee Objectives

The Valley's AB 617 Community Steering Committees are special committees that are responsible for advising the San Joaquin Valley Air District's development of the Community Air Monitoring Plan (Monitoring Plan) and Community Emission Reduction Program (CERP) under AB 617².

Committee objectives include identifying areas of concern regarding air pollution sources within and outside of the community that impact the community and sensitive receptor sites, and reviewing existing available information on air quality to provide strategic input towards Monitoring Plan and CERP development.

Committee objectives also include disseminating and soliciting information to and from community stakeholders that each committee member represents. The goal is for the Monitoring Plan to be adopted by the San Joaquin Valley Air District by July 2019 and the CERP by October 2019. Upon adoption of the CERP, the steering committee will continue to meet as needed to support and provide guidance on implementation, and develop progress reports.

Details regarding Steering Committee include:

Membership:

- The core of the steering committee directly represents the residents and businesses in the community.
- Additional committee members include representatives from city and county planning agencies, transportation agencies, health departments, and schools.
- To further encourage a comprehensive discussion and more thorough understanding of issues impacting the community, and possible solutions, the District has invited additional participants to inform the process as necessary

²Assembly Bill 617 (Chapter 136, Statutes of 2017) is a state-mandated program that uses a community-based approach to monitor and reduce local air pollution in communities around the state that continue to experience disproportionate impacts from air pollution.

(e.g., academia, health services providers, professional engineering services, etc.).

- All interested stakeholders not appointed to the steering committee are encouraged to participate at all public meetings.

The community steering committees are comprised primarily of community members, which includes participants who live, work, or own businesses within the community (e.g., community residents, small businesses, facility managers/facility workers, school personnel). Government official committee members serve as full participants in the committee, except that they serve in an advisory role, not a voting role, in final consensus building and decision-making processes.

Role:

To inform their role of advising the District in its development of the CERP, the committee members will be responsible for discussing a variety of topics including:

- Community issues and contributing sources to develop a shared understanding of the community's air pollution challenge
- Who has responsibility and authority to address those issues
- Proposed strategies for the community emissions reduction programs
- Mechanisms for engaging with other agencies
- Approaches for additional community outreach
- Other topics of interest to the committee

The committee will discuss the major elements of the CERP as they are developed including:

- Community engagement;
- The community profile and technical assessment
- Targets and strategies; the enforcement plan; and metrics to track progress

Section IV – Description of Requested Neutral Facilitation Services
